#86 We the Gardener

We have all been given a lot in life by a greater source than ourselves, who we will refer to as the Creator of the lots. No matter what you wish to call our lot, to better understand lets call us the Gardener of the lot. If you will take a minute now and allow yourself to assume the role of the Gardener of the lot, and then see where it takes us.

Our garden lot in life no matter the size exists, and it is us who is obligated to maintain and up lift this lot until our time is through.

We can ignore the fact that we have a lot, and choose to allow others to assume our chores, but nevertheless we all have our own lot.

Our problem with our lot as the Gardener is that while most of the items that grow are good and useful for us, there are those items which can grow which, while they appear to please us, have alternative motives other than to make our garden beautiful and productive, but to dominate our lot in life. These could be referred to as noxious plants or weeds.

The problem here is that the noxious weeds of our life, can add to the beauty and comfort of our lot in such a way that they deceive us and we tend to allow them to perpetuate, but if allowed they will in time choke all other good plants until they become the majority or dominate our lot completely. Thus, nothing else can grow, and our lot has become captivated by the noxious plant or plants.

When this is allowed to take place by the Gardener, now being overwhelmed by the noxious plants, having lost the control of their lot in life, the giver of the lot has no other alternative, but to cleanse the lot in order to rid the noxious plants.

The world we live in has been entrusted to the Gardener's several different times. Thus far, the Gardener's entrusted with lots have failed, allowing noxious plants to completely, overwhelm their lots, and in today's world the final attempt is nearing its end.

The Gardener's were never sent here to fail and have every tool necessary to produce a beautiful productive lot and enjoy the benefits thereof.

The main tool is a source of direction or planting guide which is never wrong. This guide is given by the Creator of the lot individually to each Gardener personally, and is fool proof. However, limited success with the garden can be attained if the Gardener places his trust in other Gardener's.

Among the various Gardener's there are those Gardener's who assume different roles.

One role is that of openly offering one's self as a master Gardener. In doing so, they profess to understand the plan of the Creator better than the average Gardener. Thus attempt to acquire the trust of other Gardener's for unjust gain. This is very upsetting to the Creator of the lots, as it removes trust in the Creator's directions of abundance.

Another role assumed by some Gardener's is the development of subtle plans using secrete combinations of Gardener's and perpetuating noxious plants with the gold to acquire garden lot's entrusted to other Gardener's. This also gravely upsets the Creator of the lots.

To attain ultimate success with the Gardener one must place complete trust in the creator of the lot, and in doing so a magnificent garden can be grown producing unbelievable abundance.

However, in the previous attempts to establish good Gardener's, they, while having limited success, each time have failed because of their failure to completely take heed in the instructions of the Creator and have subtly placed trust in other Gardener's or just allowed the noxious plants to overwhelm their lots, and then succumbed to the noxious plants and lost their lot in life, which a similar happening is about to occur in the very near future.

The solution to reverse this inevitable happening is extremely simple, merely remove all trust in the other Gardener's and completely rely or trust upon the proven guidance of the Creator of the lot.

As this process begins to take effect, meaning that with the help of the creators guide, the noxious plants become more visible to the Gardener along with those who are the false Gardener's, and it will become apparent as to which are the noxious plants on your lot which must be removed. Thus, no matter how pleasant they may appear to be, the realizations of their intent become plain to the Gardener as he removes and eliminates them one by one from his lot in life. The process may be difficult, as the Gardener may have become use to them, but soon the more open space, now becomes available can be fill with far more lushes plant life.

This in time, the creator will become pleased with the Gardener's and the necessity of the cleansing will completely disappear.

Using this scenario and applying it to our lifestyle today and in determining the noxious plants of our lot in life, one must only look for the most captivating systems put in effect in our lives. In those more captivating systems, unjust increase is attained by others, which never ends until the Gardener's lose their lots in life.

At the top of the list of noxious plants, according to the Creator's guide, is an unjust economic system used to create rich and poor, or classes among men. With this system, most other captivating systems or noxious plants fall into place, with the top of the list being unjust wars, which are perpetuated through corrupt governments.

At the local level, a noxious weed might be a method of business, which stifles or destroys other businesses, all also perpetuated by the evil or unjust economic system.

In the middle of this is the system of usury. While America, the land of the Free, perpetuates war on countries in which usury is prohibited. Meaning that a Bank or Finance company could not exist in their land, as making money for helping one with money is against the law. Where here, it is one of the biggest businesses in the land, even participated in by so-called religious leaders.

Another possible noxious plant is what is referred to as religious organizations, those with leaders officiating by use of secret combinations. Those who profess to be more righteous than their followers. Those who control their membership through a blend of good deeds and fear, some to even enforce their positions by violence and even war and reward themselves and maintain themselves off the efforts of the membership.

Food and the food industry also fit into the classification of noxious plants in this scenario as they become more and more a form of captivity as the population gorge themselves, from starvation, on foods preserved using methods which destroy more and more of the nutritional food value, leaving the more fattening materials.

Once the Gardener understands and then begins to gradually remove themselves from supporting these various forms of captivity or noxious plants, a sense of more freedom begins to emerge as the feeling of doing what is right becomes apparent. Much like with those who give-up the entrapment of smoking, drinking or overeating.

The Creator of the Lot's in life has provided everything necessary including a communication guide for the individual to live a lifestyle of peace and happiness, but it is up to the Gardener to manage and maintain the garden lot of life.

The Gardener has but two choices, either take heed of the directions of the Creator and maintain the garden lot in life properly, or be cleansed away as has happened over and over again, as it is impossible to serve two masters.
